

Lavender Signature Series

Product Story

Lavender essential oil has been beloved and treasured for thousands of years as one of nature's greatest gifts for healing. Recorded usage of lavender dates back to Biblical times where it was used for bathing as well as a key ingredient in many of the most effective remedies of that time. In the late 1900s, Rene Maurice Gattefosse, a French chemist and perfumer, discovered the amazing skin benefits of lavender oil after using it to treat his severely burned hand, which was healed completely without any trace of an infection or scar. Today, lavender essential oil is used in many skin care products, however, many companies dilute the oil, or use synthetically altered versions. The products in Young Living's Lavender Signature Series contain only the finest Young Living Therapeutic Grade™ (YLTG) lavender essential oil, ensuring the maximum benefits of lavender oil are delivered.

Product Summary

Young Living's Lavender Signature Series features a collection of all-natural personal care products infused with pure therapeutic-grade lavender essential oil.

What Makes These Products Unique?

Along with adding lavender essential oil to each product in this collection, great care has been taken to create all-natural and eco-friendly formulations, by ensuring that every ingredient used comes from sustainable sources.

Lavender Hand & Body Lotion and Lavender Bath & Shower Gel also utilize a unique plant-based preservative system that is completely all-natural and free of synthetic components, which can be irritating to the skin.

Did You Know?

- + Traces of lavender were found in King Tutankamen's tomb when it was opened in 1922. These traces even had a slight scent after being sealed in the tomb for more than 3,000 years.
- + The methods used to distill lavender essential oil thousands of years ago are the very same methods we use today to distill essential oils.
- + In the 16th century, lavender was used to protect people from cholera outbreaks.
